GRESHAM'S EMPTY PLACE.

WILSON, BAYARD, WRITNEY, AND THE MENTIONED FOR IT.

Benator Gray, Don Dickinson, and Secretary Carllele Among the Possible but Not Probable Candidates-The Late Secretary to Be Burled with Military Monors in Deference to the Pride He Pelt in His War Becord Bemintscences and Ancedotes of His Eventful Public Life.

WASHINGTON, May 28,-The sorrow felt by the people of Washington on account of Judge Gresham's death is more profound and sincer than is usual when a public man dies. His enemies among the politicians in both parties were numerous. His action in accepting office under the Cleveland Administration and the ridespread unpopularity of his foreign policy alienated him from many of his old-time Republican friends and admirers. Republican leaders have been angry at him ever since he descried the party, and the Democratic leaders have mistrusted him. Personally, however, he was generally pepular, and his many good qualities were universally recognized. That he was brave, honest, generous, and kindly, everybody in Washington who was brought into contact with him was ready to admit, and his simple and homely habits of life and unpretentious manner were tolerated good-naturedly by members of the diplomatic corps. They all had a special fendness for Mr. Gresham, although they occasionally indulged in a quiet laugh at the Secretary of State's frequent disregard of the exacting formalities of diplomatic etiquette.

During the entire time he was a member of President Cleveland's Cabinet Secretary Gresham and his wife lived at a hotel, and there they gave their state dinners and receptions. Judge Gresham disliked formal affairs, however. He was fonder of a quiet game of cards with such family friends as happened to call at his modest apartments during the evening. It was his habit to sit in the public corridors of the hotel for an hour or so after dinner, smoking a cigar and laughing and chatting with anybody who chanced to greet him. This free-and-easy Democracy was so different from what is usual among Cabinet officers in Washington that it was a subject of general comment. This, however, never seemed to cause the slightest annoyance to the Secretary of State. He was a hard and constant worker and during the hot days of 1893 and 1894, when Congress was in session, he often worked at his desk with his coat thrown over the back of a chair and the door of the room wide open. The Secretary never apologized for his attempt to be comfortable, and it is said that on one occasion he received two representatives of a foreign legation without taking the trouble to don his coat or remove his feet from the window seat. lie was much addicted to the American habit of sitting with his feet higher than his head. In the privacy of his rooms at the hotel in the evening he almost invariably took his ease on a couch with his arms thrown over his head and his feet resting on the highest object within reach. At such times a big black cigar was between his lips, and the indications of work were all about That Judge Gresham had a kindly nature was shown by his courteous treatment of newspaper reporters, office seekers, and general vis who called upon him at his office or hotel. In the early days of the Administration the Secre-tary had the latch string of his office door alwave on the outside, but after a few months' exthe cards of all visitors be sent to him in his private room. He seemed at all times to be enrely careless of the criticism of newspapers which opposed his public acts and of the politi-cans who did not agree with him on public questions. He seemed to be as ready to give in-formation to a newspaper opposed to him as to one that consistently defended his policy. President Cleveland may designate Assistant Secretary Uhl to act as Secretary for thirty days, and the subject of filling the vacancy left by Judge Gresham's death will not be consid-ared until after the funeral party shall have re-turned from Chicago. Nevertheless, the ques-tion of a successor to the late Secretary of State is already widely discussed. The names of all chighle Democrats are mentioned, but the list of those who are likely to be considered is conwhich opposed his public acts and of the politislighbe Democrats are mentioned, but the list of those who are likely to be considered to confined to Postmaster-General Wilson, Ambassador Bayard, William C. Whitney, Don M. Dickinson, and Assistant Secretary Uhl. Senator Gray, who is a warm friend of the Administration and its most copular and able defender on the floor of the Senate, has special qualifications for the place, but his appointment is apparently out of the question, as, if Mr. Gray should resign his seat in the Senate, a Republican would be elected, or another deadlock would take place, with the result that Delaware would have horepresentative in the United States Senate. Postmaster-General Wilson is the only member of the Cabinet who is at all likely to be transferred to the State Department. His friends think that he is more fitted by temperation and habit for the duties of that office than for the management of the vast details of the postal service. Representative Stone of Pennsylvania, who is in the city, thinks that William F. Harrity may be made Postmaster-General in case Mr. Wilson should go to the State Department.

end in case Mr. Wilson should go to the State Department.

The old rumor that Mr. Carlisle may be transferred to the State Department has been relived, but it has no foundation in fact. When Judge Gresham was talked of as the probable successor of Justice Jackson of the Supreme Court, this story gained considerable currency, but Mr. Carlisle's reputation is that of a financier rather than of a diplomat, and he would doubtiess regard any effort to transfer him to the State Department as a condemnation of his doubliess regard any effort to transfer him to the State Department as a condemnation of his administration of the finances of the country. Ambassador Bayard, who served Mr. Cleveland as Secretary of State in his first Administration, is regarded as a possibility in the present emergency. It is argued that Mr. Bayard's residence abroad has made him intimately acquainted with all the questions now at issue between this country and Great Britain, and has given him an insight into present-day diplomacy that lew other available men possess. On the other hand, it is argued that Mr. Bayard's showledge of disputes between the United States and England may be quite as well employed as Ambassador at the Court of St. James as in the Department of State.

is in the Department of State.

Ambassador Eustis, who is regarded as having Dostive theas about a firm American policy, is also named for the office. Although a Southerner, he would please the North, but the fact that the South has Hoke Smith, Hilary Herbert, and Postmaster-tieneral Wilson in the Cabinet would militate against his appointment.

Bon Dickinson is supposed to be too much at variance with the President's ideas at present to be selected as Secretary of State. He is a warm personal friend of President Cleveland and has always exercised a great deal of influence over him, but his utterances have shown that he has views at variance with some of the acts of the Administration, and his entrance lints the tabinet is regarded as too likely to cause friction.

"I further order that on the day of the funeral the executive departments in the city of Washington be closed, and that on all public buildings throughout the United States the national flag be displayed at haif mast."

Secretary Herbert has telegraphed the commandants of all navalistations in the United States to half mast the colors to morrow and to keep them at half mast until the final interment of the late Secretary of State.

Mrs. Gresham received messages of condolence from ex-President harrison, Vice-President and Mrs. Stevenson, ex-Postmaster-General Blasell, Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard, Dom M. Dickinson, Senator Cullom, Senator Palmer, Gen. Miles, ex-Senator Edmunds, Ambassador Theodore Hunyen, Mrs. Senator Murphy, Marshal Field, ex-Gov. Hoadly, and scores of others. Lord Eimberiey's Telegram-American Resets of the Administration, and his entrance into the tabinet is regarded as too likely to cause friction.

The name of ex-Secretary of the Navy Whitney is also mentioned, New York State having lost one representative in the Cabinet through that Mr. Whitney's appointment would be very appropriate, and, if the President is ambitious for a higher termination of Mr. Bissell. It is thought that Mr. Whitney's all would be very appropriate, and, if the President is ambitious for a higher term, Mr. Whitney's aid would be of incanculable value.

There is considerable talk also about the promotion of Assistant Secretary of State Uhi, Mr. Uhi is a man of polished manners and of diplomatic instincts. If there were but a few more months of power for the Administration, there is little doubt that Mr. Uhi would be promoted. The Assistant Secretary has hosts of friends, and he is as popular with members of the Abinet, with whom he has had intimate relations, as he is with all persons who have transacted business at the State Department. A correspondent of the Evening News, who was a parsonal friend of the late Secretary of the trouble between tiresham and Harrison.

The pularrel between Mr. Gresham and expression in the pularrel between the following story of the trouble between tiresham and Harrison. That was the beginning. Mr. Harrison was a constant attenny before Mr. Gresham's court, and as time passed the breach widened. When Mr. Island was made Postmaster-Gensral by the salant Arthur this very much offended Mr. Harrison was made without conferring with the then Senator Harrison at all. Mr. Harrison was made without conferring with the then Senator Harrison at all. Mr. Harrison not at all. Mr. Harrison mas the senator Harrison that he was the visual special man as the Presidency. I am free to confidence of the party Mr. Harrison had been deart strated during his six years in the Senate. He could never see any good thing in a Democrat, and he saw nothing but purity in a Republican. He is an intense partisan, and a man of this class, according to my mind, is not the man who should be called to govern a great republic. "Mr. Gresham went into some detail regarding the unpleasant feeling existing between himself and the President. "Mr. Harrison," he continued, has not in the last fifteen years missed an opportunity to vilify and abuse me. He knows what I think of him, because I told him so one day in my own court. From that day to this we have never spoken. This interview took place with Mr. Gresham on a train going from Chicago to Indianapolis. At this particular time there was a great deal of talk about the corruption of elections in Indiana, when it was alleged that the Republicans had carried the State by an outright purchase of votes, based on the price of $2 each, the standard price in Indiana. "Speaking forther on this subject. Mr.

"Speaking further on this subject, Mr. Gresham said: "The question of dishonest elections is one of the greatest issues the people of this country have got to meet. It is going to this country have got to meet. It is going to create an uprising of the beople, and I have no doubt that the sooner it is done the better it will be for the Government. The question was asked Mr. Gresham at that time if he believed that, had he been mominated in Chicago Instead of Mr. Harrison, he would have been elected, as Mr. Harrison was. "That, 'said Mr. Gresham, 'is very doubtful. I appreciate what my friends did for me in the Chicago Convention, but i doubt very much if I could have been elected. I would have been opposed by most of the corporations, especially the railroads. I would have had little support from that source, and I have little doubt that millions would have been subscribed to defeat me.'

Secretary Gresham's body will be placed in a vault at Oakwoods, a large cemetery on the south side of Chicago. It will be escorted from the station to the vault by troops from Fort Sheridan.

HIS GUESTS WON'T EATEACH OTHER -IF THE DINNER IS GOOD.

DEPEW'S HARMONY JOKE.

Erhardt Will Toast Platt, Mayber Platt. Strong; Hiscock, Belden; Harrison, Me-Kinley-Everybody Wants to Know if

Platt Is Really Coing to Such a Dinner. The Hon. William McKinley, Governor of Ohio, telegraphed to Chauncey M. Depew yes-terday that he would be in town this evening at 6 o'clock and that he would be glad to attend the Hon. Chauncey's dinner.

The Hon. Chauncey's dinner may be a harmony affair and it may not. The Hon. Chauncey is great joker, but the relations of the men he has invited to be his guests are of a very peculiar nature. They are all fighting Republicans. As a rule they fight among themselves. But the Hon. Chauncey has undertaken, for the second time in his career, to bring men together who hate each other personally and politically.

The great question last night was: Will the Hon. Thomas C. Platt attend this linner? Mr. Platt is personally friendly with Mr. Depew, but he doesn't like some of Mr. Depew's doings. Mr. Platt is invited to attend a dinner party, the invitations to which read, "To meet the Hon. Benjamin Harrison." Mr. Platt and all of his associates in Republican national affairs worked like beavers to defeat Harrison at Minneapolis, but that quarrel is like the water that has gone over the milldam. Mr. Platt has had the pleasantest of talks with Mr. Harrison in the last one or wo years when Mr. Harrison has been at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and has no objection to meeting him at dinner. Mr. Platt, it is said, has also no objections to sitting at the board with Gov. McKinley, who was used at Minneapolis to batter Harrison. But when it comes to Mayor Strong, Cornelius N. Bliss, Elihu Root, William Brookfield, Gen. Sam Thomas, Gen. C. H. T. Collis, Col. Joel B. Erhardt, and Gen. Horace Porter? There are a number of other invited guests, including Thomas B. Reed and Edward Lauterbach, ex-Representative James J. Belden and State Committeman Frank S. Witherbee of Port Henry, and word came last night that Mr. Belden is expected to sit beside the Hon. Frank Hiscock of Syracuse. Gov. Morton has accepted Mr. Depew's invitation. and Mayor Strong said yesterday that he will guard of motor, composed of Measurs, Emery, Faison, Chilton, H. T. Smith, and Biddle of the State Department, will remain beside the coffin all night.

The late Secretary of State, Walter Q. Gresham, will be buried with military honors. The preliminary services will take place in the East Room of the White House, which has never been the scene of funeral services over a Cabinet officer. The draping and other accessories will be entirely military in character.

Hishop Hurst of the Methodist Church will conduct the services. All members of the Cabinet will be present except Secretary Carlisle, who will join the funeral party on the way to Chicago, where the interment will take place. Secretary Hoke Smith returned to Washington this morning.

Sir Julian Pouncefote, the Hritish Ambassador, as Dean of the Diplomatic Corps, convoked a meeting of Ministers and Ambassadors this evening at his embassy. After adopting resolutions of sympathy the diplomatists decided to attend the funeral services in a body. Similar steps were taken by the Justices of the Supreme Court. All the executive departments have been instructed to close by an Executive order. This action, with Decoration Day so near at hand, will practicully shut off public business for the rest of the week.

The callers to-day at the Arlington Annex, where the body will remain until removed to the White House sarly to-morrow, included all the foreign Ambassadors and Ministers, the Cabinet officers, the Judges of the Supreme Court, and most of the other distinguished residents of the city. Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland were among the earliest visitors.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland reached the White House from Woodley soon after 10½ o'clock, In his private officer were present. It had been arranged that the President wore black clothes and as lik hat. His long closely fitting black overcoat added to the mourning effect of his contume. The President wore black clothes and as lik hat. His long closely fitting black overcoat added to the mourning street of the therein be there No one under the sun in Republican circles and Mayor Strong said yesterday that he will be there.

No one under the sun in Republican circles hereabouts understands just why Dr. Depew got up this dinner. Any one familiar with the personal relations of the Republicans invited will tell you that Gen. Harrison doesn't like toov. McKinley, because McKinley allowed himself to be used at Minneapolis to defeat Harrison's renomination on that occasion. Gov. Morton, when in New York recently, invited Mr. Platt, who was calling on him, to wait and see Mayor Strong, who was coming. Mr. Platt refused, saying that he had no inclination to meet the Mayor.

Joseph H. Choate, Cornelius N. Bliss, Ellin Root, William Brookfield, Gen. Sam Thomas, Gen. C. H. T. Collis, Col. Joel B. Erhardt, and Gen. Horace Porter are scarcely on speaking terms with Mr. Platt, and Mr. Platt on his side of the fence doesn't care to have any personal or political relations with most of them. So Dr. Depew has perpetrated a vasily interesting political joke, in the estimation of Republicans fully acquainted with his jolly humor.

Fancy, for instance, Mr. Beiden boat Hiscock clinking glasses together. Beiden boat Hiscock and his friends in Onondaga for a number of years, until last year, when ex-Collector Francis Hendricks, the friend of Mr. Hiscock, thomped the daylight out of Belden. Then glance at Warner Miller, facing the Hon. Benjamin Harrison, the gentleman who sent that feeling deepatch to him in 1888 regretting that he had fallen outside the breastworks, but even after that declining to make the Henn Benjamin Harrison, the gentleman who sent that feeling deepatch to him in 1888 regretting that he had fallen outside the breastworks, but even after that declining to make the Henn Benjamin Harrison, the gentleman who fert him of the Port of New York; and, moreover, will not Col. Erhardt be mightily pleased to greet Senator Hiscock, whom Col. Erhardt believes to have been in the same job?

It may be that Gen. James S. Clarkson, the Republican National Chairman whom Gen. Harrison turned out i ment will be honorary pall bearers. The active pall bearers will be eight enlisted men of the United States army.

At noon or half-past the funeral procession will move from the White House to the Haitimore and Ohio Railroad station. The escort will be purely military. It will consist of all the regular troops in and around Washington, hamely: Five troops of the Sixth Cavairy from Fort Myer, Va., under Col. Gordon; four batteries of the Fourth and one of the Third Artiliery from Washington Barracks, under Col. H. W. Closson, Fourth Artillery, and the battailon of marines from the Marike barracks and the Navy Yard, under command of Col. Heywood, The escort will be under the command of Majortien, Ruger, U. S. A.

The President and the members of the Cabinet will accompany the body to Chicago, where the train will arrive on Thorsday afternoon, and, consequently, will not be able to take part in the Decoration Day ceremonies in Washington.

Until the arrival of Mr. Otto Gresham, the Secretary's only son, Mrs. Gresham had practically decided that Mr. Gresham's body should be interred at Arlington, but a consultation with her son resulted in a change of plan. The decision in favor of a military funeral was due to the pride Secretary Gresham took in his career in the Union army. Mrs. Gresham gladly accepted the suggestion, which, it is understood, was made by Secretary Lamont, who was aware that Mr. Gresham always preferred the title of General to that of Judge or Mr. Secretary.

The body of the Secretary was embalmed this Mr. Depew said yesterday that he had received nor response from Representative Thomas B. Reed, who is to be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives. But he added:

"I am always a peacemaker, and I carry the olive branch in my hand. I believe in harmony, and the banquet board is the place to bury all animosity."

It's Said that Grant's Reorganization Plan Will Be Tried Very Soon.

Ex-Mayor Grant is expected to return from Europe between June 15 and 20. Very soon thereafter, according to the statement of a Tammany Hall leader made vesterday, the work of corganizing the Tammany Hall political machine will be begun.

This leader said it is the purpose to put in effect the plan for reorganization proposed by the ex-Mayor, that is the appointment of a committee of one hundred prominent bemocrate, Tammany men, bemocrates of no organization, and even State Democracy men, if any such will consent to serve. This committee will prepare a plan for the reorganization of the local bemocracy and supervise the work of reorganization under that plan which contemplates "riddance of the one-man power," a popular cry now in all political camps. This committee is expected to be representative of the local bemocracy, the idea being to attract to the banners of the new Tammany every bemocrat in the city. Among those Democrates outside of the present Tammany Hall who will probably be invited to serve on the committee are John Higelow, Frederic R. Coudert, E. Elicry Anderson, Theodore W. Myers, Joseph J. O'Donohue, and George Griswold Haven.

The effort is to form an organization which will be so liberal in its character that there will be no excuse left for the maintenance of any other Democratio organization independent of it in the city.

The same Committee of One Hundred which This lender said it is the purpose to put other Democratic organization independent of it in the city.

The same Committee of One Hundred which will attend to the matter of reorganization, will, if the plan is adopted, also be empowered to confer with Democrate throughout the State to the proposition to increase the membership of the State Committee, a question which is agitating the Democratic as well as the Republican machine.

FIRE AT THE NAVY YARD. An Old Storehouse Partly Burned with

One of the old frame buildings near the lower entrance to the Navy Yard in Brooklyn was discovered to be on fire about 914 o'clock last night. The building is about 300 feet long, fifty feet wide, and two stories high. Nobody saw feet wide, and two stories high. Nobody saw the fire until it began to break through the roof near the centre. When the firemen got there they found it had eaten its way from the extreme southeast wall, where it had evidently started.

It looked as though the fire would be a bad
one to handle on account of the filmsy character of the structure and its nearness to other buildings, so the fire Chief sent out two additional alarms. That brought twelve englises and a fire boat, and they got the flames under control in quick time. While the firemen were working the force of marines in the yard were marched out and formed fire lines, within which none but the firemen succeeded in getting.

About half the building was burned. It had been used as a storehouse and shop by the Ordnance Department and its contents were not of the kind easily damaged either by fire or by water, so the lose is probably small. It is not known how the fire storied.

LIT IN A WOMAN'S LAP.

Little Abe Epsteln Tumbles Five Stories and Escapes Unburt. Abraham Epstein, 3 years old, tumbled down through the fire-escape holes of the five-story enement at 195 Henry street last evening from the top to the bottom, and escaped practically inhurt. Abraham is the son of Jacob Epstein. a tailor, who occupies one-half of the top floor of the tenement. Epstein went out after supper last evening, and Mrs. Epstein intrusted Abra. ham to the care of his 9-year-old brother George.

They were in the front room while their mother was washing the dishes in the kitchen. George heard a noise in the street, and, leaving A braham, he ran to the window to see what was up. He saw a crowd interested in a beginner's attempt to ride a bicycle. It was great fun and A braham climbed out on the fire escape to watch it. The next moment George saw his baby brother tumbling down toward the sidewalk through the fire-escape holes.

Mrs. Rebecca Rosenthal, who lives on the first floor, was taking the air on the stoop. She heard George's shrick and looked up in time to see a white bundle coming toward her. A coping nine inches wide, in the shape of an inverted V, arches the doorway on the stoop. The white object struck the apex of the coping and carcomed into the lap of the astonished Mrs. Rosenthal. She held fast to the object, which was Abraham, and he only bumped his head slightly on the stoop.

Mrs. Rosenthal turned him right side up, and then went off in a faint. Abraham sat on the steps crying very hard, and there Mrs. Epstein found him when she came rushing frantically down the stairs. She picked him up and made for the nearest drug store, while the neigh-bors attended to Mrs. Rosenthal.

A policeman summoned an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital. The surgeon pinched and examined the boy thoroughly and pronounced him unburt save for the bruise on his forehead and a few bruises on his body caused by bumping against the fire escapes on his downward trip.

ON A DRUNK WITH A $2,000 ROLL. Kelly Tella the Police He Was Robbed at 88 Bowery. A man who said he was Bernard J. Kelly, a lawyer, of 1,248 Vanderbilt avenue East, reported in the Detective Bureau at Police Headuarters last evening that he had been robbed of $2,000 yesterday morning in a saloon at 33 Howery. He said he lived with his brother, Thomas J. Kelly, a plumber. He left home on Monday afternoon to make a deposit of $2,000 in $20 bills in the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank. Before going to the bank he collected : check for $84.30 at the Comptroller's office, the amount of the costs in a suit which he had recently won against the city, compelling the issue of a pinm ber's license to his brother. Then he had the check cashed in Hegeman & Co,'s drug store at 196 Broadway and got drunk.

When he awoke yesterday morning he found himself with a woman in a room at the Pacific Hotel at 33 Bowery. His money was intact, and he went forthwith down to Steffen Brothers' saloon on the ground floor and set up the drinks for the house. There were about half a dozen loungers there, and, exhibiting his roll of money, he told them about his luck. A man thrust a hand twice into Kelly's trousers pocket. Kelly immediately examined his pocket, and found in it a large roll of bills and his empty purse. At first he thought it was all a joke, but he soon discovered that the bills were all $1's Instead of $20's. He was too drunk to make any resistance, he said. When he noticed his surroundings again he discovered that he was going up town on an elevated train. Then he complained at the Eldridge street station. #### THE CHIMNEY CORNER SHAKEN UP. A Gas Meter Explodes in the Cellar Almost Wrecking the Saloon.

The down stairs room in the "Chimney Corner" saloon at 414 Sixth avenue, was livlier for a few moments yesterday afternoon than it has years ago. A large gas meter exploded in the cellar, and it smashed glass, set tables and chairs flying about, and raised as much of a racket as the saloon ever witnessed on a Saturday night. Two plate glass windows on the first floor were demolished, and the iron man hole blew from its cement fastenings into the air with a report that would have attracted fatal attention to the place after closing hours in the old days.

The gas meter was being removed to make place for a new one, and the proprietors of the saloon lay the blame for the accident on the carelessness of Thomas Ronan, an employee of the company that was removing the old meter.

When the explosion happened Angelo Mardo, When the explosion happened Angelo Mardo, who blacks boots on the corner in front of the saloon, was in the cellar, and so was George Worth. Both of them were burnt about the face and hands. They went to the New York Hospital. Houan's hands were burnt too. The proprietors say that the accident caused them $600 damage.

BICYCLIST ACCUSES POLICEMAN.

Violently from His Wheel,

David Potsilver, 26 years old, a clerk living at 526 Fifth street, was thrown from his bicycle by a policeman who arrested him for reckless riding at 114th street and Lenox avenue at 9:30 o'clock last night. Potsilver received painful injuries to his head. When taken to the East 194th street station by Policeman Dominick Hooks, who arrested him, young Potsilver said that he was riding at a moderate rate of speed and that Hooks, without calling to him to stop, caught him by the arm, causing him to fall headlong to the ground.

Another bleyelist, who wore the badge of the League of American Wheelmen, but who refused to give his name, accompanied Potsilver to the station house and protested against the policeman's action. Hooks denied the charge of violence and said that Potsilver was riding too fast, and that when he refused to stop when ordered to do so he stopped him as best he could. Potsilver had a cut on his left arm and another on his cheek, An ambulance surgeon from Harlem Hospital dressed his injuries, after which Potsilver was locked up. 194th street station by Policeman Dominick

It was recently called to the Commissioner's attention that Mme. Carré could not legally hold the place, as Mine. Carre could not legally hold the place, as she is not a citizen of the United States. The law requires that all employees of the department must be citizens. Col. Waring consulted Corporation Counsel Scottabout the matter, and was advised that the law was specific and made Mine. This information was furnished yesterday by Mine. Carre herself. For the present Mine. Carre will continue to act as secretary, receiving no compensation from the city. She will be succeeded shortly by some one who is still to be selected. The salary is $1,000 a year.

UNTRIED CRIMINAL CASES.

The Grand Jury Undertakes a Brief In quiry on Its Own Hook.

The Grand Jury, which will probably be discharged to-day, spent two hours yesterday morning discussing the work of the Court of General Sessions and the status of untried cases and bail cases in the District Attorney's office. Just what the purpose of the investigation or discussion was did not develop. Elbridge T. Gerry and Chief Clerk Heary Unger of the District Attorney's office were called in, and, as far as could be learned, talked in a general way about the working of the courts. It was said that the Grand Jury was making inquiries on this subject with a view of making a presentment in favor of the fourth part of the General Sessions, which will expedite business. The work of the District Attorney and his assistants met with high commendation from the grand jurors. General Sessions and the status of untried case

BUSHNELL FOR GOVERNOR.

OHIO REPUBLICANS MAKE THE FORAKER MAN THEIR CANDIDATE.

Nominated on the Sixth Ballot-Eight Men in the Contest-Senator Sherman Chairmun of the Convention-Fornker Gets Louder Cheering Than Any One Else. Springfield was nominated for Governor on the sixth ballot late to-night by the Republican State Convention. It is a Foraker victory. The McKinley candidate was G. K. Nash.

There were eight candidates. Bushnell was the seventh candidate in the race at the start. the ballot being: Barger, 86; Keifer, 74; Hoyt, 170]6; Nash, 108; Nevins, 60; Harris, 56; Poe, 146]6; Bushnell, 58. ris, 44; Poe, 133; Bushnell, 83. The third ballot resulted: Barger, 73; Keifer, 40%; Hoyt, 165; Nash, 199%; Nevins, 78; Har-ris, 27; Poe, 84; Bushnell, 159. The fourth was: Barger, 32; Keifer, 16; Hoyt,

The Convention was one of the largest that ever responded to the call of the party managers. Five thousand persons were packed into Memorial Hall.

Just a moment before the Convention was called to order the form of Senator Sherman was seen moving down the aisle toward the platform, and the delegates on the floor and the spectators in the gallery jumped to their feet, and there went up a mighty shout, that was repeated again and again.

Foraker got the honors, however. When State Chairman J. C. Bonner of Toledo made a complimentary allusion to ex-Gov. Foraker there was a tumult of enthusiasm.

The ex-Governor sat with the Hamilton county delegation. He bowed his acknowledgments, and the noise grew louder, and finally he allowed himself to be escorted to the platform, where he shook hands with Senator Sherman and took a seat by his

Chairman Bonner resumed his address, but the cries for Foraker continued until, stepping to the footlights, he made a request for order, and reminded the delegates that it was too early to allow the progress of business to be stopped by unnecessary speeches.

A third time the Chairman picked up his notes, but the noise could not be stopped. Foraker seen whispered in Senator Sherman's ear, and the latter, assuming the gavel without the formality of an introduction, reprimanded the Convention like a parent chiding a child for its behavior, and suggested that it was evident that those before him were not in a fit state of mind to select a candidate. Then he went on with his speech. It was a high tariff and sound money effort. When the Senator said. "I believe in a protective tariff," and spoke of McKinley, the applause was ear-splitting. The Senator was also cheered when he called attention to the fact that it was just forty years ago when the Republican party was born, and he attended at its birth. As Senator Sherman continued a delegate cried:

"How do you stand on the free coinage of silver?"

The Senator replied: to the footlights, he made a request for order,

"How do you stand on the free coinage of silver?"

The Senator replied:

"I am coming to that, Long John has been on both sides of that question."

In his speech the Senator said this on the silver question:

"It is a false pretence that the cheapening of money will be beneficial to the wage earnets or farmers. The Republican party, in its national platform of 1892, demanded good money of equal purchasing power, whether coined of silver or gold or composed of United States notes and national lank notes, based upon the credit of the United States, maintained at par with coin. This is the bimetallic policy. There we stand to-day. I hope and trust there we will stand forever. We will seek the cooperation of all nations and of all parties in maintaining the parity of gold and silver coins. If they will not coperate with us in this policy the Republican party can, and I hope will, do it alone. Good money and plenty of it is as important to all our people as equality of rights and privileges."

After the Senator had finished a recess was taken until 8 o'clock, and then the temporary organization was made permanent.

The Lucas county contest was settled in favor of seating the Foraker delegation headed by Mayor Major, and unseating of that headed by Editor Locke of the Blade.

Mayor Major, and unseating of that headed by Editor Locke of the Blade.

Nominations for Governor were in order at 8:20 and speeches were limited to five minutes, with no seconding speeches.

The Convention is unanimously for McKinley for President. Foraker will support him there

The Convention is unanimously for McKinley for President. Foraker will support him there until there is good reason to favor another's candidacy.

The Convention of to-day, although not openly hostile to McKinley, was not for him to any surprising extent. Foraker is in the saddle again, and when the proper time comes the little Napoleon must move out of the way.

After the nomination of Bushnell had been made unanimous the Convention adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Asa, Bushnell is the eldest son of Daniel and Harriet Bushnell. He was born in Oneida county, N. Y., Sept. 16, 1834, moving from there to Cincinnati, O., when quite a small child. In 1851 he went to Springfield, in which place he continued to reside. The first three years in the city of Springfield, then but a very small town, was spent as a clerk in a dry goods store, after which he became the bookkneper in the manufacturing firm of Leffel, Cook & Blakeney.

In 1857 he formed a partnership with Dr. John Ludlow in the drug business, where he continued until 1866, when he became interested in the concern of which he is now the head, under the name of the Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Company.

During the war he was Captain of Company E. 152d O. V. I., which company he recruited, and served as its Captain in the Shenandoah Valley, under the command of Gen. Hunter, in 1864.

In 1886 he was appointed Quartermaster-General by Gov. Foraker, where he served four years. He was one of the delegates at large to the National Convention in 1862.
